

Planning and Reporting Framework - Procedures

1. Purpose of procedures

1.1 These procedures outline the requirements for University planning including development, approval, implementation, monitoring and review of University plans.

1.2 These procedures must be read in conjunction with the linked Planning and Reporting – Governing Policy.

2. Scope and application

2.1 The Planning and Reporting framework is implemented through the annual planning process and applies to all staff, students and members of University decision-making or advisory bodies.

3. Definitions

Refer to the University's Glossary of Terms for definitions as they specifically relate to policy documents.

Consultation process means the provision of opportunity to contribute ideas and suggestions.

Minor amendment includes changes to correct omissions or inaccuracies, enhance clarity or initial intent, and does not change the substance of a planning document. These can be approved under delegation but should be reported to the next scheduled meeting of the approving body.

Major amendment includes amendments to the substance of a planning document such as strategic direction or goals, performance indicators, performance targets and timelines.

Monitoring means systematic review of the implementation of a University plan.

University Plan means a plan that is the University's Strategic Plan, or the University's Annual Operational Plan, or a plan for the operation of one or more organisational units (Department or School Action Plan – which may also include campuses, research centres and institutes as determined by the relevant member of the University's Executive) or a performance and development plan for an individual staff member prepared as part of Performance Planning and Review.

4. Planning process

4.1 The planning process is an annual cycle of events that are undertaken to:

- (a) update University-level plans;
- (b) translate those high-level plans into operational and action plans: and
- (c) review, evaluate and report on the outcomes of those plans.

4.2 Responsibility for the steps in the process lies with Responsible Officers of the University.

4.3 The process is designed to ensure that the University's plans, and associated strategies and targets are regularly updated and Responsible Officers account for performance against those plans, it is recognised that the steps and associated plans described in the process can be varied with the specific authorisation of senior officers of the University in response to changing circumstances and requirements, such as emerging opportunities and threats and changes in statutory requirements. However, the underlying principle is that the University must develop plans and associated strategies to deliver the objectives articulated in those plans and ultimately account for its performance against targets specified in the plans on a regular basis.

4.4 These principles are illustrated in the Planning and Reporting Model diagram included in the Planning and Reporting – Governing Policy.

If these environmental changes are considered to be significant, the Strategic Plan should be updated. If the Strategic Plan has been reviewed but is not being updated, the published Strategic Plan should be annotated to include the following text on the title page: This [insert plan title] was reviewed [insert month and year] and remains current.

or

(b) Comprehensive review - a comprehensive review of the Strategic Plan will be undertaken a year prior to the conclusion of its lifespan (i.e. in the third year of the Strategic Plan). This review will identify strengths and weaknesses in performance to inform development of the next iteration of the Strategic Plan.
