Due diligence means the process of investigation whereby the University assesses the suitability of a third party prior to entering a program delivery agreement.

Third Party Agreement means a formal relationship whereby the University enters a legally binding agreement with a third party where there is an arrangement for the Third Party to deliver university programs and support services in whole or in part to students enrolled in the programs.

Third Party means a legally established entity separate from the University with which the University has a formal relationship for the purposes of delivering programs and associated support services to students.

1. Purpose of Procedures
These procedures specify requirements and processes associated with Third Party Coursework Program Arrangements to ensure that all aspects of third party provision are compliant with the University's obligations as a registered Higher Education Provider, align with the University's strategic goals, and are consistent with quality assurance and improvement practices.

These procedures should be read in association with the Third Party Coursework Program Arrangements – Governing Policy.

2. Due Diligence
2.1 Potential partners for the delivery of university programs will be identified by the University’s senior executive staff.

2.2 To reduce risks and failures of quality, and to ensure selection of a reliable third party with whom to partner, a credible, rigorous and evidence-based due diligence process will be undertaken before reaching agreement with any third party. The due diligence process will consider a range of issues including the:

· ability of the Third Party to deliver on the proposed responsibilities of the University and each third party as allocated in an agreement
· track-record of the Third Party in the provision of higher education, including regulatory status and history
· ownership and governance structures of the Third Party

2.5 The Deputy Vice-Chancellor (Academic) is responsible for undertaking the due diligence consideration of the academic and student support aspects of the proposed partner. (Appendix B)

2.6 The findings of the due diligence process will be provided to the University's senior executive, who will make a recommendation to Council on the proposed agreement.

3. Third Party Agreement

The agreement must cover all relevant topics relating to the scope and extent of the functions being undertaken by the Third Party. It will also set out the rights and responsibilities of the University and the Third Party entity in respect of the agreement.

3.2 The University's Legal Officer is responsible for settling the agreement with reference to the Third Party Agreements checklist. (Appendix C)
3.3 Agreements will only be signed once due diligence has been completed and the partner is deemed suitable.

3.4 Agreements will be proportionate to the scale and nature of activities involved and will allow the University sufficient powers to ensure consistency with the Higher Education Standards Framework.

3.5 Agreements will include a commencement and expiry date and exit arrangements that enable the University to meet its obligations to its students.

4.3 Processes will be developed and implemented to promote and facilitate consistency in approaches to marking of assessment tasks, including moderation of all assessment tasks by the University's own academic staff.

5. Auditing

5.1 A cycle of periodic audits of each third party arrangement and evaluation of their performance will be established by the University. The audits will be undertaken largely internally, but will be supported by external review (at least every five years) in line with Higher Education Standard Framework requirements for corporate and academic governance.

5.2 The timing of audits will be set out in the individual agreement, however the Vice-Chancellor and President may approve the conduct of a review at a time other than a scheduled review.

5.3 The audits will examine the obligations of each party as set out in the agreement, the extent to which each party has fulfilled their obligations, and the extent to which the Third Party has adhered to the policies and procedures it is bound to observe.
