

Understand and explain human behaviour

Bachelor of Social Science (Psychology) (Honours)

Continue towards registration as a psychologist or a PhD program.

You'll gain a comprehensive introduction to ethical standards in professional practice and legislation that govern the practice of psychology in Australia.

In your final year, you can undertake a research project within the field of psychology on an issue that interests you.

The program is recognised by the Australian Psychology Accreditation Council.

In this program you will:

- Learn how to undertake comprehensive personality assessments
- Complete a research project of your choosing
- Join our research student community
- Understand legislation that governs psychology in Australia

Admission requirements:

The entry requirements for admission to the Bachelor of Social Science (Psychology) (Honours) are:

- completion of an Australian Psychology Accreditation Council (APAC)-accredited three-year undergraduate degree in psychology within the last 10 years or the first three years of an accredited four year course, and
- a minimum Credit average in second and third year courses and a Credit in the majority of second and third year psychology courses.

There is a limit on the number of honours places available, and selection will be based on applicants' order of merit on second and third year psychology courses.
